PRODUCTION TECHNIQUE

Following careful selection, the grapes underwent stainless steel fermentation, capturing the vibrant essence of the fruit. The wine then embarked on a transformative journey, aging gracefully for four years within our semi-underground cave. During this time, a harmonious blend of oak barrels was employed, with one third being new French oak, imparting richness and structure, while the remaining two thirds resided in neutral French oak, allowing the wine to develop complexity and depth. This patient aging process resulted in a wine of remarkable balance and character.
